Title:	WEIGHTING CUSTOMERS' DATA FOR MORE ACCURATE SHORT-TERM LOAD FORECAST
Reviewer's Name:

The enclosed manuscript is under consideration for the above-mentioned journal. Please provide comment on the following criteria. Please be advised that you should provide comments within a month of receiving the manuscript. Reviews should be returned to editorJATIT@gmail.com / editor@JATIT.org as an attached file.

Mark (X) where appropriate	YES	NO
Does the title accurately reflect the content?
Is the abstract sufficiently concise and informative?	X
Do the keywords provide adequate index entries for this paper?	X
Is the purpose of the paper clearly stated in the introduction?	X
Does the paper achieve its declared purpose?	X
Does the paper show clarity of presentation?	X
Do the figures and tables aid the clarity of the paper?	X
Are the English and syntax of the paper satisfactory?	X
Is the paper concise? (If not, please indicate which parts might be cut?)	X
Does the paper develop a logical argument or a theme?	X
Do the conclusions sensibly follow from the work that is reported?	X

Are the references authoritative and representative?	X
Is the paper interesting or relevant for an international audience?	X
Is there valuable connection to previously published research in this area?	X
Is the overall quality suitable for inclusion in this journal?	X

Recommendations: Mark where appropriate.

Publishable. Accept without correction or minor corrections
Publishable, however accept subject to changes.	X
Reject due to changes but encourage resubmitting.
Reject due to unpublished material.

Additional Comments:

1. Elaborate in introduction what is meant by more accurate in title.
2. Establish strong foundation of this work by critical up to date literature evaluation also defining significance and need of the work from literature evaluation. Literature critique is not convincing for need of this work as limitations of previous are not expressed.
3. Discuss elaborately what are your main findings? What are the implications of the findings? Are you findings similar or different from what others have found? What is the source of the difference? Discussion is too short and this makes the significance of work very hard to understand.
4. Conclusion is also arbitrary comments. It should be based on achievement of research objectives set and their interpretation in light of data presented along with authors own opinion and deductions from the work.
5. Provide clear limitations and assumptions in this study and also provide future directions.

Note: Indicate the updates of changes in the manuscript in red-colour font so that changes/updates are easy to track.

S . No	Comment	Reply to Comment / Change Description	Page No .
1)	Elaborate in introduction what is meant by more accurate in title.	It is added in the introductory chapter that forecasting results with the model weighting of customer data are more accurate than forecasting results in the Matlab case study.	Page No. 2 (the text is RED)
2)	Establish strong foundation of this work by critical up to date literature evaluation also defining significance and need of the work from literature evaluation. Literature critique is not convincing for need of this work as limitations of previous are not expressed.	It is added to the background of the weather factor in tropical areas and its impact on the customer behaviour changes. This study used a case study as a reference of the Matlab (already evident in section 2.1). The uniqueness of this study is how to get the weather data through customers' data weighting. In convincing the need of this work, it is added to the results and discussion about the causes of differences in the results of forecasting accuracy between Matlab and case studies using the same method of research data.	Page No. 2, in the background (RED text) Pages No. 7 (RED text)
3)	Discuss elaborately what are your main findings? What are the implications of the findings? Are you findings similar or different from what others have found? What is the source of the difference? Discussion is too short and this makes the significance of work very hard to understand.	It is added to the results and discussion of research focus and the fundamental differences in this study. The results and discussion section explain broadly about the advantages, disadvantages and the ideal conditions for the application of the proposed method.	Page No.7- 8 (BLUE text)
4)	Conclusion is also arbitrary comments. It should be based on achievement of research objectives set and their interpretation in light of data presented along with authors own opinion and deductions from the work.	It is added to the conclusion, that the primary purpose of this study is forecasting performance improvement through STLF proposed methods by involving weather data and weighting of customer data.	Page No.8- 9 (RED text)
5)	Provide clear limitations and assumptions in this study and also provide future directions.	It is added to the results and discussion and consequences of the application of the proposed method and direction of the future for the convergence between the OT and IT.	Page No. 8 (GREEN text)
